ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The conference brings you the latest information about hazardous materials, emergency planning, mitigation planning, and environmental issues. The conference will also offer cutting edge sessions devoted to health and medical issues. The speakers will be addressing issues that affect providers and first responders.

LEPC's offer extensive information about hazardous materials, emergency planning and environmental risks in the community. The LEPC also provides training for HAZMAT Awareness, Operations and Technician level programs to improve the level and standard of private industry and local emergency response to an incident at the local level.

As an exhibitor, you can get your message directly to the personnel tasked with the protection of their personnel and their local community.
